HOWDY!

'Tis the season for summer shenanigans and April Fools' antics! I hope y'all are planning some spectacular prank-a-thons. Need inspiration? We devised a randomizer to make prank-planning a little easier (and also crazier), and we rounded up some mischievous ideas from comic book and video game characters.

We're all for clowning around, but you know what we're dead serious about? Toys. Specifically, choosing the hottest toys to keep ya entertained this summer. Our 61-strong selection is da bomb, I tell ya! Whenever the toy awesomeness gets overwhelming (hey, it happens), do take breaks and head to the cinemas to catch The Boss Baby and Smurfs: The Lost Village.

I loved talking about Magnus Chase and the Gods of Asgard: The Sword of Summer with you guys last month. I've already started reading The Hobbit, our book of the month, since it's a little lengthy. But it's totally epic!

Two more things you should check out: Summit Media's swanky new logo, and my best impression of a creepy Easter bunny. LOL! Have a super fun summer, fam!

EDITOR'S PICK

KZ ART DIRECTOR GRACE RECS THE LORD OF THE RINGS TO ALL ADVENTURERS OUT THERE.

K-Zone: How did you first get into the LOTR series?
Grace: I read The Fellowship of The Ring when I was 12 years old. My cousin, who collected fantasy books, lent me his copy when we visited their house. I remember not being able to put it down until the last page. I immediately asked the 'rents to get me copies of The Two Towers and The Return of The King.

KZ: Which is your fave book in the trilogy?
G: The Two Towers. My fave part is the Battle of Hornburg, A.K.A. The Battle of Helm's Deep. It was the first massive clash between opposing forces [that took place in the series]. #goosebumps

KZ: Which characters do you like the most?
G: My LOTR faves are Gandalf, because he's wise, he's good pals with dem mighty eagles, and he gets to have a showdown with fearsome ancient entity Balrog, (spoiler alert: he survives), and Eowyn 'coz she shows us that girls can kick major baddie butt!

KZ: Any reading recs once peeps finish the trilogy?
G: JRR Tolkien managed to create a very detailed history of Middle-Earth—he even came up with languages for Men and the Elves! There are tons of epic reading material for The Lord of The Rings book fans, but I suggest starting with The Silmarillion, a compilation of stories about the history of middle-earth.

KZ: Which Middle-earth race would you wanna join?
G: I would deffo join the Elves because they get to sail to the Undying Lands and live forevah!

JUST KID-D

DO YOU THINK YOUR LI'L SIB HAS SOMETHING UP THEIR
HERE ARE THE SIGNS YOUR BABY SIB MAY ACTUALLY

Secret Sign #1: Master Manipulator

You try to tell your parents a story, but your baby sib starts bawling. Turns out the little spy was in the middle of interrogating your 'rents 'coz he's working on a time-sensitive case.

Normal Baby Behavior? Babies like being noticed, but sometimes, you really can't trust them.

Secret Sign #2: Freaky Abilities

While looking after your sib, you notice that he's climbing on top of things and doing weird poses. Take a chill pill! He's actually just warming up for the daring stunts he'll be doing while on the mish.

Normal Baby Behavior? Babies are born with more bones and looser joints, but then again, their flexibility is alarmingly athlete-level.

Secret Sign #3: Indecipherable Babble

When baby sees his fellow little people, he starts blabbing. The parentals think this is adorbs, but baby's actually holding a meeting and speaking in a secret language that only fellow spies (A.K.A. babies) can understand.

Normal Baby Behavior? Yes, though isn't it weird that toddlers can understand us but we can't understand them? It's like they're speaking in code or something!

Suspicious Momma: Danielle Pe Benito

ING AROUND

ONESIE SLEEVES? PUT YOUR SUSPICIONS TO REST 'CAUSE BE A BIGSHOT EXECUTIVE ON A TOP SECRET MISSION.

Secret Sign #4: Disappearing Act

One minute, baby is in the room, and the next minute, he's gone. The whole fam frantically looks for him, and you find him in his nursery, wearing a suit and carrying a briefcase.

Normal Baby Behavior? Tiny tots have a weird habit of crawling into everything. Maybe he just happened to crawl into a suit?

Secret Sign #5: Night Owl

Your li'l sib never sleeps at night, and sometimes, you can hear him talking to somebody, even when he's alone in his room.

Normal Baby Behavior? Babies like to take naps during the day and sleep in three-hour intervals at night. Maybe he still doesn't have a regular sleep schedule? Doesn't explain the one-way convo, tho.

Secret Sign #6: Weird Attachments

Baby is always clutching a blanket, a pillow, or a toy. He never goes anywhere without it. Why? Because it conceals his secret weapon. Aha!

Normal Baby Behavior? Having a security blanket is normal, but think about it. Why do they call them "security" blankets?

Secret Sign #7: Insatiable Hunger

Baby is always putting stuff in his mouth, and he needs a bottle every two hours. Plus, every mealtime, he tends to grab some big-kid food, like sushi—as if he can digest it!

Normal Baby Behavior? Puny humans need a lotta food for them to grow, but maybe it's also 'cause they're famished after investigating puppies all night.

We give major props to the kick-butt babies

POOF
FAIRYWINKLE-COSMA
Fairly Odd Parents

WAAAH-LIFYING FACTOR:
Poof is the ONLY (good) fairy baby in existence!

THE BUZZ ON THIS BABY:
Don't be fooled by this fairly odd infant's googly eyes and squishiness! If you upset Poof, his crying can cause all sorts of trouble. (Just ask the last peeps who didn't listen to his mom Wanda.)

BABY SPONGEBOB AND THE GANG
SpongeBob Squarepants

WAAAH-LIFYING FACTOR:
The Krusty Krab crew (and Patrick) look d'aww-worthy as younglings. Yep, even the cranky Squidward looked cheerful as a baby.

THE BUZZ ON THESE BABIES:
Plankton tried to steal the Krabby Patty recipe by spraying a gas that turned everyone into babies, but the tots gave him a dose of the gas, too. #Fail

FLURRY HEART
My Little Pony: Friendship Is Magic

WAAAH-LIFYING FACTOR:
Princess Flurry Heart is the very first natural-born Alicorn foal in Equestria. Basically, this li'l tot has the combined abilities of every pony type.

THE BUZZ ON THIS BABY:
Flurry Heart's got a pretty powerful sneeze that can blast through ceilings, and her wails can break crystal.

TOONS

in the T.V. 'verse.

LILY LOUD
Loud House

WAAAH-LIFYING FACTOR:
Say it Loud and say it proud: Lily is the most adorbz of the sibs and can get away with all sorts of hijinks!

THE BUZZ ON THIS BABY:
Not only did she beat big bro Linc at video games and an old dude at chess, she did something most humans can't. She drank a peanut butter and sauerkraut smoothie (and lived to tell the tale)!

THE GUARDIANS OF ETERNAL YOUTH
Regular Show

WAAAH-LIFYING FACTOR:
Some of the most powerful beings in the universe are… a bunch of overgrown babies with manly voices.

THE BUZZ ON THESE BABIES:
The Guardians use their magic rattles (with some help from Skips) to keep the world safe from their bro, Klorgbane the Destroyer.

BABY FINN
Adventure Time

WAAAH-LIFYING FACTOR:
Where else can you find a buff tootin' baby who can dance like a man?

THE BUZZ ON THIS BABY:
He ain't just for show. When baddies lurk around the corner, he's strong enough to give 'em a good punch! Baby Finn was even tough enough to survive alone on a mountain for days before Jake's parents picked him up.

What's the Catch?

Comic Book Issue: Amazing Spider-Man #25, 1965

Super Wacky Score

J. Jonah Jameson once sent out a robot to capture Spidey. The web-slinger defeated the 'bot and even played a prank on ol' Jameson by making it look like the robot nabbed him. When the reporter unmasked "Spidey," there was no one under the suit!

Something Fishy

Comic Book Issue: Detective Comics #475, 1978
Super Wacky Score

The Joker might be bonkers, but he could be absolutely hilarz, too. He once created mutated fish that bore his signature smile. He called them the Joker Fish. Since the fish shared his likeness, he tried to claim a portion of the profits from all the fish sales in Gotham, but Batman put a stop to his shenanigans, of course. The Joker Fish weren't even poisoned or anything!

This Hero Packs a Punch

Comic Book Issue: Injustice: Gods Among Us #5, 2013
Super Wacky Score

Gags that use boxing gloves are kinda cliché, but Green Arrow surprisingly found a srs biz use for 'em: boxing glove arrows. Why? As GA said, sometimes you gotta punch someone who's really far away. Besides, what could a baddie with superhuman abilities and godlike powers wield against this kind of arrow? Right? RIGHT?

WHY DO YOU NEED A BOXING GLOVE ARROW?
BECAUSE SOMETIMES I WANT TO PUNCH SOMEONE WHO'S A REALLY LONG WAY AWAY.
AGH. TELL ME ABOUT IT!

...ERED

Saving the world is serious business, but so is pranking, and comic book supers sure know a thing or two about making mischief. Rate their pranks by shading the jester hats.

The Real April Fool

Comic Book Issue: Marvel Fanfare #15, 1982
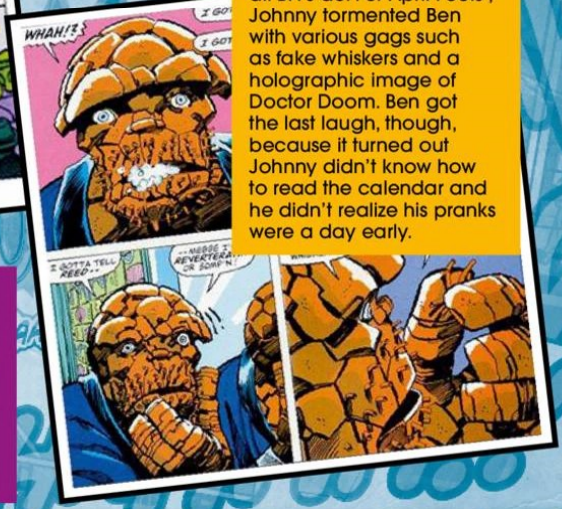
Super Wacky Score

Johnny Storm, A.K.A. Human Torch, and Ben Grimm, A.K.A. The Thing, had a little prank war like all BFFs do. For April Fools', Johnny tormented Ben with various gags such as fake whiskers and a holographic image of Doctor Doom. Ben got the last laugh, though, because it turned out Johnny didn't know how to read the calendar and he didn't realize his pranks were a day early.



Trick or Treat!

Comic Book Issue: Journey Into Mystery #88, 1962
Super Wacky Score

One of Loki's most epic pranks EVAR was when he cast a spell on Thor and made him unable to use his hammer. And because Thor couldn't stop him, he cast another spell and gave everyone candies and ice cream! Remind us again why Loki is a villain?

LET'S

GET YER BUTT OFF THE COUCH
STREET GAMES

PIKO

A.K.A. hopscotch, this game will have ya jumping for joy!

The Goal: Hop your way to the end of the court and back without falling over. Once you finish a whole court, you get to choose your base box.

Players: You can play this alone or with a couple buddies.

Materials Needed: A flat surface, chalk, and a stone for your puck

How to Play:

1. Create your piko court by drawing boxes (eight to 12 boxes, depending on your preference). Make sure you have several single-foot boxes, at least two sets of double-foot boxes, and a semicircle at the end where you can pivot and change directions. Label the boxes with numbers; the highest number should be on the semicircle.

2. Grab a flat stone for your puck and throw it on the first box. Skip that box so your foot lands on box 2. Without losing your balance or stepping on the lines, jump on the rest of the boxes (one foot per box) and turn around when you get to the semicircle. When you reach box 2, pick up your puck, then skip box 1 and jump back to the starting point.

3. Repeat step 2, but throw your puck on the next number (box 2, then box 3, and so on) and skip it as you go.

4. After going through all the boxes, claim your base box. It can be any box as long as nobody owns it. You can step on your base box on every turn with either one foot or two feet, but other players can no longer step on it. Keep playing 'til every box has been claimed. Whoever has the most base boxes is the winner!

Loser Penalties: None! If ya wanna make it more competitive, you can come up with your own penalties.

Don't... Throw your puck in the wrong box. Wrong box = disqualification.

Do... Make the game more LOL-worthy by getting creative about how you pick up your stones or jump from box to box.

PLAY OUTSIDE!

AND PLAY SOME PINOY WITH THE SQUAD!

PATINTERO

Get ready to sweat 'coz this game's intense!

The Goal: If you're a passer (A.K.A. runner), you must get to the opposite end of the grid and back to your home base without getting tagged by the guards. If you're a defender, you must catch the runners by tapping them.

Players: Big squads, rejoice! This game requires a minimum of six players. The more, the merrier!

Materials Needed: A spacious, flat area (make sure no crowds or cars are passing through), and chalk or stones to mark the grid

How to Play:

1. Draw a grid on the ground using chalk or a sharp stone.

2. Split the group into two and assign each team to play as either passers or guards.

3. The guards position themselves by standing on each grid line. There should be one guard assigned to each line.

4. Let the games begin! The passers run through the grid and back again, all the while avoiding being touched by the guards. When you successfully return to the starting line, you score a point for your team. If one of the passers gets caught, the tagged runner switches roles with the guard. First team to score three points wins!

Loser Penalties: Losers gotta carry the winners on their backs or crawl underneath the legs of the winners.

Don't... Resort to violence! Just 'cause the game's getting hot doesn't mean your temper should, too. And don't step off your line if you're a guard. That ain't fair, yo.

Do... Execute your best moves while dodging the guards!

DYK? Patintero is the most popular street game in the country.

LESSONS FROM THE PROS

TEAM KZ DROPPED BY THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF THE PHILIPPINES TO FIND OUT HOW THE COUNTRY'S BEST PAINTERS AND SCULPTORS CRAFTED THEIR MASTERPIECES.

The National Museum's huge collection of artworks is spread out across over 20 galleries.

COOL COPY CAT

Practice makes perfect, so try drawing portraits, painting landscapes, or even mimicking other peeps' art styles in order to find or hone your own technique. Painter Felix Hidalgo did this when he was an art student, and you'll see a bunch of paintings that he did when he was still in school.

DYK? The National Museum used to be the Legislative Building.

Juan Luna's famous "Spoliarium," located in the Masters Hall, is one of the first masterpieces that will greet you when you start your museum tour. This gigantic painting won first place in an art contest in Madrid and took Luna eight months to finish! Like a lot of other artists, our man Juan didn't just wake up one day and start working on this painting. Check out the pro tips we learned from him and the other masters.

Master Apprentice: JB Canay
Photos: Charmaine Cabugnason

STUDY HARD

Artists don't make paintings and sculptures out of thin air. Gallery 11 showcases National Artist Fernando Amorsolo's many sketches of people and objects. These studies later became finished paintings, which you'll find in another gallery.

#LEET

Aside from being a doctor and a writer, our National Hero was also one gifted artist! Dr. Jose Rizal's sculptures and sketches are housed in Gallery 5. His sculpture called "Mother's Revenge" features intricate details for such a small pièce de résistance! Another one of Rizal's great works is "Oyang Dapitana," which was replicated by National Artist and master sculptor Guillermo Tolentino.

EXPANSION PACK

Another impressive, supersized painting is Botong Francisco's "The Progress of Medicine in the Philippines." All the artworks in the National Museum show that with constant practice and study, making larger-than-life masterpieces like this one is definitely possible!

The National Museum is located along Padre Burgos Ave., Manila. It's open on Tuesdays to Saturdays, from 10:00 AM to 5:00 PM. The best part: You can visit the museum for free! Yay!

DYK? This painting by Juan Luna, titled "Portrait of a Lady," is believed to be cursed! Apparently, everyone who previously owned the artwork experienced bad luck. Eep!

TIME WARP

Keep an eye on the clock.

Bobby was extremely excited for the camping trip. For the seventh time, he checked his bag and made sure his gear was complete: water bottle, extra clothes, sun protection, first-aid kit, flashlight, rain gear, matches, compass. Everything was in order.

"Bobby, did you remember to bring your watch?" his mom called out from the living room.

Bobby didn't like this particular watch. He found it too simple. It didn't have a compass, and it wasn't as water-resistant as his friends' watches. Some of his pals could swim with their wristwatches on, while others could navigate with their timepieces. All he owned was a simple one that worked in the rain, glowed in the dark, and told the correct date and time.

He didn't have the heart to tell his mom that he didn't like the watch she gave him for his last birthday. He stashed it inside his bag anyway and said, "Yes, Mom! It's in my backpack, with my compass."

Later that morning, Bobby and his fellow boy scouts were hiking up a mountain. The Scout Master kept a fast pace—Bobby and his friends could barely keep up with him. They lagged far behind along with some other scouts.

As they ascended the rocky trail, an elderly man whom they didn't know approached them. He looked at Bobby and warned him, "Don't lose track of the time."

Bobby's friends laughed. "I don't think we'll have to worry about the time," said Mike. He flashed his high-tech watch at the old man, showing off the different dials and time zones on his fancy wristwatch.

"Mine has a GPS tracker," interrupted Charlie. "I think we'll be fine, sir!"

The old man shook his head and turned to Bobby. "Listen to me, Bobby," he began.

Bobby's eyes grew wide. "Wait, how did you know my—"

"What did I tell you about talking to strangers? Let's go, boys!" The Scout Master arrived just in time to push the suspicious stranger away, threatening to call the cops on him.

After a couple of hours, the group reached the peak and set up camp for the night. The Scout Master pointed at the sky excitedly. Shooting stars zipped across the sky, which was pink and purple and had orange streaks.

Bobby took his watch out of his backpack. It seemed to be broken, because the date kept changing. The watch said February 2017 one minute and February 2006 the next.

The other scouts noticed that their watches were acting funny, too.

Charlie was tinkering with his GPS. "I'm going to get in so much trouble if Mom finds out I broke it," he said.

"Maybe you just need a better signal," said Mike.

Spooky Storyteller: Dustin Celestino
Illustration: Maku Felix

As Mike and Charlie ran off to find a good signal for their gadgets, Bobby noticed that his friends were walking toward a purple fog. He tried to follow them, but after only a few steps from the campsite, his watch buzzed.

Bobby's timepiece indicated that it was 2018. He took another step forward and his watched buzzed again. This time, it read "2019." He ignored it and and kept walking for a bit. His watch kept buzzing and when he glanced at it again, it read "2024."

From where he was standing, Bobby could see Mike and Charlie ahead of him. They seemed taller than they were a few minutes ago.

He looked at his watch again. It resembled a stopwatch as the hours and minutes sped by. He remembered the old man's warning about losing track of the time.

Bobby realized what was happening. The closer people were to the purple fog, the faster time went by.

He called out to Mike and Charlie. He frantically waved at his friends in hopes of warning them about the fog. But it was too late. He could only watch in horror as their hair turned white, their skin got wrinkly, their backs hunched over, and finally, they deteriorated into skeletons and disappeared into the cloud. Bobby screamed.

Suddenly, a strong wind blew in his direction. He saw the purple fog rush toward him. Bobby tried to outrun it. Sweat ran down his temple. Each shaky step he took felt heavier and weaker.

He could hear the blood pounding in his ears. His watch buzzed several more times. It felt like it was buzzing with each beat of his heart.

When Bobby got back to the camp, no one was there. He instantly knew something was wrong. He checked his watch. It said "2017." But the date was different. It was the day before the hike.

Maybe he ran too far from the purple fog. Maybe he didn't run fast enough. He didn't know if he outran time, or was caught in it. He didn't know if he was in the present, the future, or the past. All he knew for certain was that he had lost track of time.

Bobby took another glance at his watch and noticed that his hands were old and wrinkly. He touched his face and felt a thick beard. He realized that he had aged decades since he left camp the night before.

Resigned to his fate, he slowly made his way down the mountain. He came across a small group of rowdy boys on their way up.

He approached one of them and told him, "Don't lose track of the time."

How To Draw:

Step 1*: Sketching The Boss Baby's basic shapes using a pencil

Don't forget to add crosshairs on the head to mark the eyeline.

For his cellphone, draw a rectangle above his left hand.

Draw circles for his head, ears, hands, and feet.

Make cylindrical shapes for his body, arms, and legs.

*Remember to sketch lightly during steps 1 and 2 so that step 3 will be easier!

Step 2*: Deets, please!

Draw a pair of circles for his eyes, then add his hair, ears, nose, and mouth.

Add his teeny fingers next and don't forget to add more details on his cellphone.

Sketch his suit using straight and curved lines.

Finally, make ovals for his feet.

EENY MINI-LEB

HOW TO MAKE YOUR KZ PAPER POP TOY:

1. Cut the toy pattern along the thick black outlines. Make small slits along the dotted lines on Mini K-LEB's HEAD and ARMS.
2. Make mountain folds for all the small flaps.
3. Form Mini K-LEB's HEAD and BODY by folding them into box shapes. Glue the HEAD to itself using the small flaps. Do the same for the BODY.
4. Fold each EAR in half and glue it to itself. Then, slip the EARS into the slits on the HEAD.
5. Fold each ARM into a box shape and glue it to itself. Attach each arm to the BODY by gluing the white flap on top of the BODY.
6. Fold the RATTLE in half then glue it to itself. Insert it into the slit on either ARM.
7. Glue the HEAD onto the BODY.
8. Make mountain folds on the bigger pieces of the LEGS. Attach each one to itself using the small flaps. Get the smaller pieces and make valley folds along the thick black lines. Using the small flaps, attach each piece to the top of the bigger LEG piece.
9. Complete the toy by sticking the LEGS onto the front corners of Mini K-LEB's BODY. Have fun babysitting the tiniest member of the squad!

As the undercover cop, you will monitor criminal activity, find clues, accomplish missions, and unlock characters and disguises to catch the bad guys. You'll meet lotsa baddies before you get to the criminal mastermind Rex Fury, so get ready. The chase is on!

WOOT LOOT

Shut up and take our coins!

RETRO VGAME MYSTERY MINIS

This month, Funko will release retro vgame Mystery Minis that will make any old-school gamer squeal. Characters from classic 8-bit vgames such as Pac-Man, Mega Man, Frogger, and *Q*bert* are given a modern makeover, and they look slick and shiny as vinyl figs. We can't wait to have these on our shelves!

STAR WARS VILLAINS TATTOO BACKPACK

Darth Vader, Emperor Palpatine, and the rest of the Empire strike back(pack) as they take over this intergalactic carrier. The bag's pattern, inspired by classic tattoo designs, is totally Sith, er, sick! Even the good guys would wanna get this backpack, which is available from Hot Topic for $39.90 (approximately PHP 1,990).

THE LEGEND OF ZELDA:

AVAILABLE ON NINTENDO SWITCH, WII U | GENRE ACTION RPG | RATING

The next generation of Zelda is here! Explore the sprawling world of Hyrule as soon as you get started, or follow the main story in order to save Princess Zelda—the choice is yours.

WILD, WILD WORLD

Oh, the places you'll go!

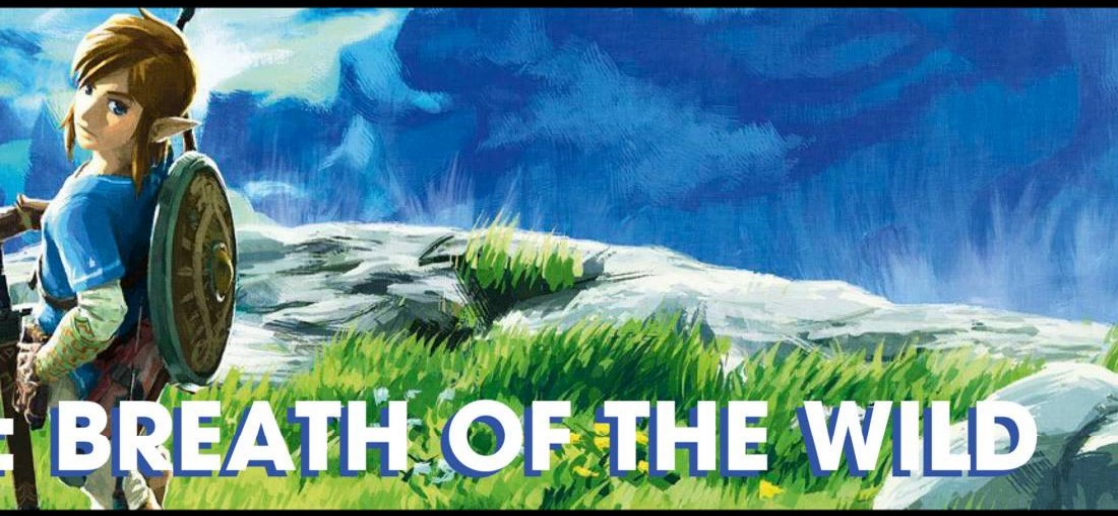
Breath of the Wild will feature a huge, fully explorable open world. There's so much to see and do! Fight monsters you encounter on your journey, solve puzzles in the Shrines of Trials, or pick up shiny loot from enemies like Bokoblins and Lizalfos to upgrade your gear. Better hydrate, fam, 'coz you're gonna do a lotta running and horseback-riding.

HYLIAN HUNTER

It's mealtime, yo!

Grab your hunting gear and track down some furry critters. You need to gather meat so you can cook with steez like #SaltBae. Certain snacks will also enable Link to survive in extremely hot or cold places. Chow down, y'all!

DYK? Link is usually shown as a leftie, but he's right-handed in this game.



BREATH OF THE WILD

PG

SECRETS OF GERUDO

We spotted these Easter eggs from the game's trailer.

HIDDEN ZELDY

The trailer shown at the 2017 Switch reveal included an area that looked way similar to the Earth Spring from Skyward Sword. Could it be a "link" (heh, geddit?) between this game and previous titles in the series?

THROWBACK

Zelda series creator Shigeru Miyamoto says Breath of the Wild will take visual cues from older games. Your big bro or sis might recognize places that appeared in Twilight Princess, for starters.

SHIEKAH-WESOME

Is that an iPhone? Nah, dawg! Just a Shiekah Slate!

Link has a new smartphone-looking gadget called the Shiekah Slate. The folks who created it were exiled by the King of Hyrule a century before the game's events. As you progress through the game, you can pick up runes that unlock the Slate's fantastic powers. Control objects, craft bombs, and even stop time itself with the power of the Shiekah!

How will you spend your first few hours in Hyrule? Jot down your adventure plans here:

DYK? Breath of the Wild includes voice acting, which is a first for the series. Ready to memorize those lines?

SUPER BOMBERMA

AVAILABLE ON NINTENDO SWITCH | GENRE ACTION | RATING G

The retro series about grid mazes and cartoon bombs gets a fresh reboot for the Nintendo Switch!

AN EXPLOSIVE CLASSIC!

This series has been around since the boom of video games!

Since its humble beginnings on the Famicom waaay back in 1983, the Bomberman series has been entertaining gamers with its unique, top-view gameplay and epic explosions. (Imagine being trapped in a room full of baddies where your only means of escape is a sack of cartoonishly huge bombs—awesome!) Fast forward to 2017 and the latest installment, Super Bomberman R, is set to introduce a whole new generation of gamers to the adventures of a little robot with a mad love for bombs. Like any classic series that's been remade for modern audiences, the graphics have been upgraded but retain that old-school feel!

BOOM, SHAKE THE ROOM!

This bombastic game has a pair of main modes to satisfy that detonation kick.

The vgame features a massive story mode that you can tackle alone or with a friend via co-op. Blast through 50 stages in order to save the galaxy! The levels will be complex and challenging, and the bosses will be epic, so maybe bringing a buddy along isn't such a bad idea after all.

DYK? Bomberman was called Dyna Blaster in Europe in its early years.

NR

IT'S THE BOMB!

You haven't truly played versus multiplayer until you've tried Battle Mode!

Get ready for some multiplayer mayhem! The setup is simple: Eight players are dropped into a single stage and your objective is to outwit, outplay, and outlast everyone else. We suggest you invite your gamer 'rents to join the fun. They'll appreciate the vgame throwback, trust! Heck, invite your sibs and pals, too, 'coz there's more than enough room for everyone!

GET FIRED UP!

Give your Bomberman a boost!

Power-ups can be found by blasting blocks, so keep chucking those bombs. Leet boosts include power-ups that increase your movement or expand your attack range. There are also shields and projectile objects that you can use if you wanna survive Battle Mode.

DYK? The original Bomberman was the prequel to another retro game called Lode Runner! mind-blown

YOOKA-LAYLEE

AVAILABLE ON PC/LINUX/MAC, PS4, XBOX ONE, NINTENDO SWITCH

Jump for joy and get ready for one heck of an exploration, platforming fans! Join Yooka and Laylee as they leap, fly, swim, hunt for treasure, and foil the eeevil Capital B's schemes. Shipwreck Creek, here we come!

WHO LIKE?

Meet the dynamic duo!

YOOKA

A slick chameleon who's the very definition of chill—even when Laylee is testing his patience.

Awesomesauce Abilities

Slurp State: Harnesses an item's elemental property (like Metal, Luminous, Sticky, Charged, or Fire) by licking it!

Fart Bubble: Creates a smelly air bubble so you can breathe underwater. (That stinks—literally!)

LAYLEE

A fun-loving bat who likes cracking jokes. She usually gets poor Yooka in trouble.

Awesomesauce Abilities

Sonar Shot: Stuns enemies and activates certain items.

Sonar 'Splosion: An AoE attack that deals damage and stuns its targets!

YOOKA-LAYLEE

With the power of teamwork, you'll get these sweet moves!

Flight: Lets the duo fly for a few seconds!

Camo Cloak: Turns Yooka and Laylee invisible!

Reptile Roll: Run around on a rolled-up Yooka to climb up steep hills.

COLLECT AND SELECT

Keep an eye out for these useful items.

Pagies: Your main collectible. Use these on the Grand Tomes so you can expand worlds and unlock new ones.

Mollycool: Powers up Dr. Puzz's D.N.Ray to help Yooka and Laylee morph into different forms (like a flower or a snowplough).

Play Tonics: You can get these from Vendi to upgrade your abilities!

Quills: Your in-game moniez. Use these to buy new abilities from Trowzer!

DYK? The Shovel Knight's titular character makes a cameo apperance in the game as an NPC!

GENRE ADVENTURE PLATFORMER RATING PG

BUTTS YOU CAN KICK!

Brawl with these nasty baddies.

Corplets: Capital B's monster minions. Hit 'em once to bring 'em down.

Armored Corplets: Troll-like critters that wear green shorts, and either brown fedoras or oil pot helmets.

Googly Eyes: Attach themselves to inanimate objects and bring them to life. Smack 'em before they stick to an item!

Inept: Robot watch guards that are tough to hit. Pro tip: Use the Camo Cloak to sneak up on them!

GOT SOME CHANGE?

Play mad multiplayer games at Rextro's arcade!

Fight against three other buddies in the arena brawler Glaciators, or leave your pals in the dust with some old-school kart competition in Kartos Racing. You can also boot up Jobstacle Course, Blag the Flag, Gun-let Run, and Hurdle Hijinx. BUT FIRST: You gotta unlock each game's arcade machine by collecting loads of Play Coins.

DYK? Yooka-Laylee was made by the same devs who worked on Banjo-Kazooie and Donkey Kong Country.

Game Guy: Dustin Celestino

What's your vgame nickname?

Based on the name, draw your new digital alter ego. Think of this character as your personal gaming bodyguard. Whenever someone tries to trash talk or flame ya, this avatar will protect you!

CHOP CHOP MASTER ONION

Parappa the Rapper: Remastered

"Kick! Punch! It's all in the mind!" How can anyone forget Master Onion's epic raps as he teaches Parappa karate?

Master Onion-style Prank: Dip an onion in chocolate, let your victim take a bite, then bust out the Master Onion rap.

WARIO

Super Mario series

At the end of Wario Land: Shake It! Queen Merelda thanks Wario for saving her. Wario responds by pushing her outta the way and going for the treasure behind her. #WootLoot #Bye

Wario-style Prank: Grab the last slice of pizza while everyone's distracted.

ANNIE

League of Legends

A.k.A The Dark Child, our fave fire mage has one heck of an infectious laugh and blazes with a love for fire-related puns. Her animation consists of skipping around the battlefield while holding her teddy bear (which can transform into a vicious grizzly).

Annie-style Prank: Hide behind a wall or a couch and when someone passes by, throw a stuffed bear at 'em. LOL! It's like summoning your very own Tibbers!

WAKL W

These kooky characters outshine all pranksters on

PAPYRUS
Undertale

"NYEH HEH HEH HEH!" You can't help LOL-ing at this skeleton warrior who always speaks in ALL CAPS and has a move called the "absolutely normal attack." He claims that when it comes to dating, he's a "skeleton with high standards" which apparently means he needs someone who can make a mean spaghetti.

Papyrus-style Prank: Proudly warn your target that you have an epic prank to pull on them. Then, proceed to do absolutely nothing—this will cause said target to get way paranoid.

JUNKRAT
Overwatch

Jamison Fawkes is the undisputed master of physical comedy in Overwatch. His emotes and skins show off his offbeat and punny sense of humor.

Junkrat-style Prank: Copy Junkrat's "lounging" emote (where he's lying down sideways on the floor) somewhere in the house and immediately jump up to surprise whoever walks into the room.

DAN HIBIKI
Street Fighter

In Super Street Fighter IV, Dan makes a cheesy commercial for the Saikyo-ryu Dojo, but forgets to tell people the address of the dojo. Fail!

Dan-style Prank: Invite people over to your party, but "forget" to tell them the venue.

PRANKSTERS

April 1st, but they're legit jokesters all year round.

Juztine Sedan
How can I defeat the Wall of Flesh in Terraria?

Before you conquer the Wall of Flesh, you gotta prep your terrain. Create a 1,000-tile flat land bridge that can go through half the map to the right. You can also build a five-block tunnel to render WoF's laser eye attack useless. Then, summon the WoF on the left side of the map. Equip Molten, Crimtane, Necro, or Shadow armor in order to boost your abilities. Deal serious damage with a Sunfury Flail for melee combat, or a Hellwing Bow, Phoenix Blaster, or Star Cannon if you're more comfortable attacking from afar. Bring a Diamond Staff, Beenades, and lotsa Greater Healing Potions with ya! Good luck!

READER REVIEW

EJ Santos
tells us why Boom Beach is the bomb!

Gameplay

Boom Beach is an MMO strategy game where you play as a military camp's commander. You'll build a base, put up structures to defend it, and attack other players' turfs in order to expand your territory. You will also fight evil masters and scientists. It's like Clash of Clans, but cooler!

Graphics

The game has 3D graphics. Your views mainly consist of your island, your Task Force, and a map of the ocean.

Replay

The game goes on and on! Attacking enemy bases gives you useful items like wood, stone, iron, gold, crystal, and intel, which you can then use to unlock more bases to seize.

Sound

The music is great! The simple beats will make you feel like you're legit going on a super secret mission.

Overall

This is one of my fave games ever, so I give it 10/10!

Pranks have a nasty habit of going wrong, so be careful when you try to pull 'em off, and don't blame us if you end up getting grounded.

P

OUT OF SIGHT

Take a picture of the couch in your living room. Then, ask your sibling/s to sit on it and pretend to take their pic. Show 'em the empty couch photo to convince them that they turned invisible or became a ghost. Oooh!

GOLDEN SMILE

Place a few drops of yellow food coloring on your sib's toothbrush while he's away. When he sees it, he'll wonder if someone used it because of the yellow hue. Ewww!

HEY, BIGFOOT!

Stuff your siblings' (or parents') shoes with tissue. Make sure the tissue isn't all bunched up in front and that the shoes are evenly padded. Watch as your victims try to put on their footwear, only to find they suddenly don't fit anymore. LOL!

PRANKS

I MINT TO DO THAT

Buy a pack of sandwich cookies with white cream filling. Remove the cream from the biscuits, replace it with toothpaste, and give the cookies to your pal! He'll have the mintiest "twist, lick, dunk" experience fo' sho!

CAN OF WORMS

On your BFF's bday, buy a can of cookies as your gift. Before giving it to him or her, take all the cookies for yourself (Yay!) and fill the can with broccoli, socks, or anything that you can find in the house. Now that's a birthday surprise he'll never forget!

COME FROM BEHIND

Load a random video on your phone and tell your pal that you're going to show him a jump scare clip. Give him the phone and tell him to wait for the surprise. While he's focused on the video, put on a scary mask and a wig (if you have one), then sneak up on your pal and scare him! He definitely won't see that coming! Hehe.
